

Publishing Agreement

1. Summary. This Publishing Agreement represents the full agreement between _____, the author or representative of the author or authors (the “Author”) of a manuscript accepted for publication as an article (the “Article”) in The Energy Journal, and the International Association for Energy Economics (“IAEE”), through its subsidiary the Energy Economics Education Foundation (“EEEF”), publisher of The Energy Journal, (“the Publisher”), stating the entirety of the rights, obligations, and options of both the Author and the Publisher.

2. Identification. Identification of the Article and the Author

Article Title:

Author:

Co-Authors if any:

Author’s Email Address:

Author’s Telephone Number:

Energy Journal Reference No:

3. Authority to Execute. In the instance of an article with multiple authors, the Author hereby represents by his or her signature below that he or she has the authority to execute this Publishing Agreement on behalf of all co-authors of the above referenced article. The Author agrees to indemnify and hold The Energy Journal, the IAEE, and the EEEF harmless against any damages, cause of action, or allegations brought by any person or institution claiming the rights or benefits of authorship of the Article. The Author further attests that there are no restrictions on the assignment of his Copyright or other interests in the Article by the Author’s employer or any other person or institution, and that to the extent necessary, the Author has obtained an express waiver from any such person or institution releasing the Author from any such restrictions and enabling the Author to execute this publishing agreement. The Author agrees to indemnify, protect and hold IAEE harmless from any damages or cause of action brought by any third party alleging a violation of their rights in the Article.

4. Election of Optional Publication Treatment. The Author has determined and indicated by inscribing his or her initials in the blanks that are part of the subheads below which optional publication model offered by the Publisher and described below he or she elects for the publication treatment of the Article – (1) Green Open-Access or (2) Gold Open-Access. This is a one-time election which may not be revisited or modified without a mutually-acceptable written amendment to this Agreement.

- (1) ____ Green Open-Access. Green open-access publication applies a subscription-based model for cost coverage, with copyright transfer to IAEE for a three-year period. In electing the option of the subscription-based model, the Author hereby agrees to transfer to the International Association for Energy Economics the copyright of the aforementioned manuscript and all supplemental tables, illustrations, and other information submitted intended for publication as part of the Article in all forms and media (whether now known or hereafter developed), throughout the world, in all languages, for a three-year period commencing effective as of the date of the publication of the article. This transfer includes all rights to provide the Article in electronic and online forms and systems. With respect to supplemental data that the Author wishes to make accessible through a link in the Article, the Author hereby grants a non-exclusive license for such linking via IAEE's website. By electing this option, the Author further agrees that IAEE shall retain the exclusive license to publish the Article and hold copyright to the Article as to all works published in The Energy Journal.

- (2) Gold Open Access. In electing the option of a Gold Open-Access publication model for the Article, the Author or his funding institution agrees to pay to the IAEE a one-time non-refundable Article Processing Charge ("APC") of $3,000 for publication of this article in The Energy Journal. The Author understands and agrees that IAEE will not copyright an article published in The Energy Journal for which the author or another party with permission of the author has paid the APC. In this instance, the author retains full copyright for the Article, with the proviso that the author grants the IAEE an unlimited license under that copyright in all media and for all time. IAEE will maintain, through its website, the Article as open-access under the terms of a Creative Commons license as articulated below, allowing any person to read and download the article at no cost. The Author may further post the published final version (i.e. the publisher's version) of the article on his author's website or deposit a copy of it in any repository. It is not the responsibility of IAEE or The Energy Journal to post or deposit the Article other than on the IAEE website. The Author accepts that the Author will receive an APC invoice from IAEE within 30 days of signing this agreement and electing this option. The Author agrees that full payment of the invoice must be made within 30 days from invoice date, and that failure to pay the invoice within 30 days will result in the paper being withdrawn from publication in The Energy Journal.

As Author of the paper subject to this Agreement, I elect: (select one)

The Green Open-Access publication model

The Gold Open-Access publication model

5. Requirement to Provide an Executive Summary. Within thirty days of notification that this paper has been accepted for publication, the Author agrees to write and submit a short (1 to 2 page) non-technical Executive Summary of this article which highlights the following: why the Author wrote the paper, a short account of the research performed, and a statement of the conclusions of the research summarizing the outcomes and benefits of the work. The Author agrees that no tables, charts, graphics, equations, etc. are to be included in this Executive Summary. The Author agrees that the Executive Summary will be sent to The Energy Journal's Editorial Office (EnergyJournal@iaee.org) no later than 30 days after the Author receives the initial print of the composed article to be published by IAEE. The Author acknowledges that failure to provide the Executive Summary will result in the article not being published by IAEE.

The abstract will be posted on IAEE's website in advance of the official publication date of the issue of The Energy Journal that carries the Article.

6. Copyright, Open-Access, Creative Commons Licensure, and Derivative Works Election. If he or she elects publication under the Green Open-Access Policy, the Author agrees to assign to the IAEE the copyright and all rights under it for an embargo period of three years from the date of publication of the article, after which the copyright shall revert to the Author. If he or she makes an election to publish the article pursuant to the Gold Open-Access policy, the Author shall retain the copyright to his work. Under either election, however, the Author agrees to abide by the IAEE Open-Access policy which includes, at the end of any applicable embargo period, the granting of a Creative Commons (CC) license to any person desiring to read or use the author's article, provided attribution to the author and to the IAEE as original publisher is made (CC-BY). The author may, however, elect to prohibit users from using all or parts of the work to create any derivative works (CC-BY-NC-ND). In that instance the author must initial below where indicated.

The Author has determined, for the publication covered by this Agreement, that derivative works (initial in box):
WILL NOT be permitted (CC-BY-NC-ND [____])

7. Data Availability Policy. The Energy Journal is committed to the principle that results in papers that it publishes must be replicable. The author(s) agree to make data and programs available to other researchers on a request basis. The Journal recognizes that in some cases, data and/or programs are proprietary or may have required considerable resources to assemble. If this is the case, the author(s) are required to write a letter to the Editor in charge of the paper to explain the circumstances. In such cases, the author(s) agree to share their data/programs on the condition that the researcher will use the materials solely for the purpose of replicating the results.

8. Continuing Rights. The parties agree that the Author retains certain scholarly rights in the Article and the work leading to its publication including rights to quotation or reference, elaboration in further writings, and continuation of related research, and may exercise other related rights not enumerated herein upon specific request and approval by IAEE. The parties further agree that the Author does not need permission from the Energy Journal to:

- a) use original figures/tables/graphics/equations in future publication works;
- b) include the Article as part of dissertation work;
- c) make copies of the Article for his or her own personal use, including classroom use by him or her,
- d) distribute not more than 20 copies of the Article to immediate colleagues provided that these copies are not sold; or
- e) use all or part of the Article in print compilations of his or her own works.

9. Attribution. The Author agrees that in all instances of publishing a preprint and/or accepted manuscript version of the Article, the Author will reference its first publication in The Energy Journal. The Author acknowledges that even in the instance that the APC is paid, the copyright of The Energy Journal extends to the issue as a whole, and therefore agrees that the full journal reference will be presented as stated in the paragraph below.

The Author agrees that citation to The Energy Journal must be made and must include the copyright notice below whenever permission is granted for significant citation to or use or excerpting of the Article, whether or not the subscription-based model is elected:

- “This article first appeared in The Energy Journal, Vol. XX, No. X, pages XXX-XXX, year, DOI: [http://dx.doi.org/10.5547/\(insert remainder of DOI here\)](http://dx.doi.org/10.5547/(insert remainder of DOI here)) - Reproduced by permission of the International Association for Energy Economics (IAEE).”

10. Requests for Permission to Reprint. Requests for article reprints (including the use of original figures or tables published in IAEE Journals) either for classroom or commercial use must be sent by email to iaee@iaee.org and must state the purpose of reuse, the intended audience, and the plan for distribution. Copyright Clearance Center (phone 1-978-750-8400 or email info@copyright.com) may be contacted for classroom use of articles. Authorization to photocopy items for internal or personal use of specific clients is granted by the International Association for Energy Economics provided that the proper fee is paid directly to CCC. For commercial reuse of IAEE copyrighted material, charges apply for reuse (e.g., reprinting author’s article and/or parts thereof) in another publication that is for sale to the general public.

11. Adherence to IAEE Publications Policy. The Publisher attests that the Article has been reviewed and accepted in accordance with the principles and standards of the IAEE Publications Policy, requiring objective, non-partisan, qualified and professional review and judgment that the Article represents the highest standards in original energy economic analysis and presentation. Publication of the Article does not represent, however, and must not be alleged by the Author or anyone on behalf of the Author to represent, the agreement of The Energy Journal, the IAEE, the EEF, or any of the editors or officials thereof, with any opinions, conclusions, recommendations, or policy suggestions included in or endorsed by the Author or the Article.

12. Additional Attestations by the Author

- The article I have submitted to the Energy Journal for review is original, has been written by the stated authors and has not been published elsewhere.
- The article is not currently being considered for publication by any other journal and will not be submitted for such review while under review by this journal.
- The article contains no libelous or other unlawful statements and does not contain any materials that violate any personal or proprietary rights of any other person or entity.
- I have obtained written permission from copyright owners for any excerpts from copyrighted works that are included and have credited those sources in my article.

- If the article was prepared jointly with other authors, I have informed the co-author(s) of the terms of this publishing agreement and that I am signing on their behalf as their agent, and I am authorized to do so.
- I agree that none of the contents of the article submitted have been plagiarized from any other published works including my own.
I agree that I have read, understood and will abide by the Creative Commons licenses located at located at:
<http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/> and
<http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nd/4.0/>

13. Entire Agreement. The parties agree that this Agreement represents the entire agreement between them, and that it is not superseded by any other prior writings or prior or subsequent oral statements or understandings. No revisions, additional terms, or addenda to this Agreement shall be effective without the express written agreement of both parties.

14. Dispute Resolution. The Author agrees that all editorial decisions with regard to the publication of this article, including its length, specific elements included or excluded, final form of words or expression, and the final decision of whether or not and when to publish the article, are solely within the editorial judgment of the Publisher, and that the Author's exclusive remedy for any controversy or claim concerning such decisions is to withdraw the article within thirty days of notification that this paper has been accepted for publication. Any other controversy or claim arising out of or relating to this agreement, or the breach thereof, after good faith efforts at mediation have failed for sixty days, shall be settled by arbitration conducted in the City of Cleveland, Ohio, in compliance with the laws of the State of Ohio, United States of America, and pursuant to the rules of the American Arbitration Association, by a single arbitrator, and judgment on any award rendered by the arbitrator may be entered in any court having jurisdiction thereof.

15. Execution. The undersigned have read and understood this agreement and execute it fully intending to be bound by its terms.

Author's Signature

Date

The Energy Journal
Energy Economics Education Foundation, Publisher